Promoting Rotary

Gordon Bagne introduced Farland Chang, CEO and Executive Producer of WorldBizWatch Media & Video Production.

Farland Chang

Farland is an Emmy Award winning international journalist, Executive Producer and Founder of WorldBizWatch. In a journalism career spanning more than 20 years, Farland has covered top stories across Asia and North America. He launched CNN's Asia Business Morning, conducting live interviews with market strategists, industry analysts, entrepreneurs, and movers and shakers. Farland also produced and reported the popular weekly segments Asia Rising and Entrepreneurs Only, which focused on the best success stories in Asia. Before CNN, the award-winning journalist served as a network correspondent for NBC News. And earlier, he reported for television and radio news organizations in Seattle, Philadelphia, New York, Washington, DC, Hawaii and Guam. Farland also served as international trade coordinator and press secretary for the former Lieutenant Governor of Delaware, S.B. Woo. A Cornell University graduate, he has a master's degree from the Columbia University School of Journalism, as well as a post-graduate certificate from England's University of Bristol in radio, film and television.

Farland spoke to us about "Promoting Rotary." He was a Rotary scholar in England and said it was the best time of his life. He said "Remember that stories are the oldest form of communication and the value is in their retelling. Rotary is involved in making lots of the greatest stories happen. You need to know what the media wants in a story. Check out Rotary on You Tube and see humanity in action. Use these tools to promote Rotary."

A book will be donated to Newport Beach Library in the name of Farland Chang.
