Women Helping Woman Men2Work

Bill Robbins introduced Janie Wolicki, Executive Director of Women Helping Woman and Men2Work. As an experienced non-profit professional with expertise in fundraising and relationship development, Janie brings to WHW experience in major gifts, annual campaigns, individual giving, special events and corporate and foundation grants and grant writing. She has a successful track record in building strong boards focused on the mission of the organization and on their role as board members.

Women Helping Women (“WHW”) began in 1993 when two survivors of domestic abuse began their journey to create a life for themselves and their children. As legal professionals, they faced the daunting task of rebuilding a professional wardrobe when all of their resources were needed for basic living expenses. This gave them the idea and motivation to create Women Helping Women – a non-profit organization to help prepare women for the work place after escaping a violent relationship.

The clients who benefit from the “Employment Success Program” are ethnically, racially, and economically diverse. Most face huge challenges in overcoming severe barriers to employment. In 2008, 94% of the 2,045 clients served were qualified as extremely low-income under current HUD guidelines. Their statistics also reflect that 74% were single, head-of-household and spanned an age range of 15-80 years. In 2009 they were on track to serve approximately 2,200 clients.
